

Expressing the Wonder of Plants

with

Barry Van Dusen

This workshop will focus on techniques artists use to observe, record and express the beauty and variety of botanical subjects. We'll start by bringing plants indoors to explore techniques for drawing and painting them in a controlled setting. With drawing tools and watercolors, we'll learn how proportions, contour, tones, gesture and rhythm can be used to create dynamic and lifelike plant studies. Time and weather allowing, we'll venture outdoors to work with plants in their native habitats. Finally, Barry will show and discuss some of his own sketches and paintings, sharing his approaches to painting plants throughout the four seasons.
